ABOUT

About OpenDegree

OpenDegree is building an AI-powered admissions platform that helps students discover suitable universities, complete applications and track their progress through one intelligent, streamlined platform.

For higher education providers, OpenDegree helps you identify, engage and enrol suitable students through an efficient, transparent and largely automated admissions process. Our goal is to automate the admissions journey wherever possible — reducing paperwork, repetitive processes and unnecessary delays — while keeping human support available whenever it is needed.

OUR VISION

Building one of the UK's most intelligent admissions platforms

OpenDegree combines artificial intelligence, automation and human expertise to simplify university admissions — while improving the experience for both applicants and higher education providers. We are building trusted partnerships that simplify admissions, reduce administrative workload, and connect institutions with suitable, eligible prospective students.

Benefits to Universities

AI-Powered Student Matching	Surface applicants who genuinely fit your courses and entry requirements.
One Streamlined Journey	A single, consistent admissions process from first enquiry to enrolment.
Reduced Administrative Workload	Automate repetitive tasks so your teams focus on decisions, not data entry.
Automated Eligibility Screening	Applicants are pre-checked against your criteria before they reach your team.
Secure Document Management	Documents uploaded once, stored securely, and shared only with consent.
Interview Scheduling Automation	Coordinate interviews automatically around applicant and staff availability.
Applicant Progress Tracking	Follow every applicant through each stage of the pipeline in real time.
Multilingual Applicant Support	Engage international applicants in the language they're most comfortable with.
Human Support When Required	Dedicated support for applicants and providers whenever it's needed.

Frequently Asked Questions

Is OpenDegree live yet?

We are in active development, building partnerships with UK universities and higher education providers ahead of our public launch.

What does it cost to partner?

We offer transparent partnership terms, discussed with you during your discovery call.

How are students matched to our courses?

Our AI matches applicants to your courses based on their qualifications, preferences and eligibility, always with human oversight.

Is applicant data handled securely?

Yes. We are building on GDPR and UK data protection principles, with secure document handling and consent-based sharing.

Do we need technical integration to begin?

No. API and portal integrations are planned, but you can begin partnering with us without any technical work.

Can we control which applicants we receive?

Yes. Applicants are automatically pre-screened against your entry criteria before they reach your team.

OUR TEAM

The Team Behind OpenDegree

OpenDegree is being developed by a multidisciplinary team with a shared vision of transforming higher education admissions through AI, intelligent automation and human-centred technology.

Our mission is to simplify the admissions journey for both universities and prospective students by reducing administrative workload, improving efficiency and helping institutions connect with suitable, eligible applicants.

As we prepare for launch, we're working closely with UK universities and higher education providers to ensure the platform is built around real admissions processes and the needs of both institutions and students.

We believe the future of admissions combines artificial intelligence, automation and human expertise to create a more transparent, efficient and accessible admissions experience for everyone.
